DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the eccentric axle, the driving axle, the paddle member, the axle supporting part, the cam groove, the crankshaft, the paddle front end, the paddle rear, and the plurality of slots must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Murayama et al.

Murayama et al disclose a toner removing apparatus (Fig. 2) to remove and collect used toner on a photoconductive drum 15 in a laser printer (Col. 2, line 55), the apparatus comprising a used toner collecting bucket 44 having a used toner entry port (i.e. area between elements 16 and 18, Fig. 11) into which the used toner on the photoconductive drum flows; a cleaning blade 16 installed at the used toner entry port to guide the used toner to the used toner entry port by scraping the used toner off from the photoconductive drum (Col. 6, line 11); and a used toner transferring unit 61 to transfer the used toner so that the used toner accumulated at the used toner entry port is evenly distributed within the used toner collecting bucket (Col. 10, lines 10-18).

Murayama et al further disclose the used toner transferring unit includes an eccentric axle to perform an eccentric motion with respect to a driving axle installed in a rot table manner (Fig. 7) and a paddle member cooperating with the eccentric axle to move the used toner into the bucket while reciprocating along a predetermined trajectory (Fig. 7); the paddle member includes an axle supporting part having cam groove and a crankshaft (Fig. 3); a paddle front end to scrape a toner down to bottom of the bucket (Fig. 11); a paddle rear end connected at an opposite side of the paddle front end (Fig. 11); the paddle front end extends by a predetermined length in predetermined direction so that the paddle front end is spaced from the bottom of the bucket and having a curve shaped hook portion (Fig. 11); the paddle rear end is formed of a plate shape and may include plurality of slots (Fig. 11); an axle supporting part is installed between the paddle front end and the paddle rear end (Fig. 7); the paddle may be in a form of a sheet type paddle (Col. 10, line 15).
